

Patrick Lambert

Upper Saucon Township Municipal Authority

Patrick began his career in the water and wastewater industry in 1992 as a trainee at Stroudsburg Municipal Authority, despite having no prior knowledge in the field. He quickly earned his Water Operator Certification and started teaching for the Department of Environmental Protection as an adjunct professor through D.C.E.D. Patrick pursued studies in Business Administration at Northampton Area Community College.

In 2003, Patrick became the Chief Operator at Broadhead Creek Regional Authority, navigating numerous storms, floods, and power-related challenges. He also obtained his wastewater certification when B.C.R.A. assumed wastewater operations from Stroudsburg Borough.

By 2015, Patrick was managing water and wastewater operations for Blue Ridge Real Estate Company in Lake Harmony, where he learned about the rapid impact of ammonia increases in a plant. In 2020, challenged by the pandemic, he took on the role of Director of Water and Sewer Resources at Upper Saucon Township.

Outside of work, Patrick enjoys spending time with his family, pets, and wife. He loves exploring the Pennsylvania countryside and visiting wineries on weekends. Patrick is an avid Penn State and football fan, often spending his weekends watching games and cheering for his favorite team. He also enjoys hiking, biking, golf, exploring the beauty of nature.

Patrick understands the importance of resilience, especially in the face of unexpected challenges like the Covid-19 pandemic. As Ben Franklin wisely said, "We will not appreciate water until the well runs dry."
